

The colored work in Biggie Berry Book is an immense aid to berry growers. It shows the leading berries true to size, shape and color. They were first carefully painted by an experienced artist, and then reproduced by lithography at a cost of over one thousand dollars. Aside from the color work there are scores of reproductions made directly from photographs of berries, so that the reader may have an accurate idea of them. See publishers' announcement in another column. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia.

Trade Beach-bits

Highest Point in Oil

New York, Nov. 3—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Despite some variations in the currents of trade distribution the aggregate movement continues of immense volume; in fact, if the aggregate of bank clearings in the country outside of the metropolis is a trustworthy index, as it no doubt is, the country's trade reached its highest mark in the month of October. Prices certainly showed marked strength in view of the proportions of earlier advances. In some lines of wholesale trade, notably dry goods, there has been some quieting of demand, without, however, any perceptible effect being exercised upon values of textiles, which indeed are more firm than ever. It has, indeed, been a record period in the wool trade, the sales at leading centers having exceeded all records for the week and the strength alike of the raw and the manufactured material is most marked. Cotton goods are also very strong, partly on the extraordinary demand, and partly because of the strength of the raw material. The great cereals have been rather dull this week, with slight variations in price, and the market appears to have come to a standstill pending new developments.

IRON AND STEEL.

In the iron and steel trade strength of values is perhaps the most notable feature, but activity has been transferred from the finished branch of the trade to the market for pig iron, which has been very active at full prices. A heavy business was done in hardware during October, relatively the best reports coming from the west. Other metals fail to show as much strength. Copper and tin being considerably lower on the week.

Corn exports for the week aggregate 4,304,425 bushels against 4,525,518 bushels last week; 3,566,646 bushels in this week a year ago, 2,247,643 bushels in 1896, and 1,225,447 bushels in 1895.

BUSINESS FAILURES.

While showing some increases in number and liabilities over the summer and autumn months, business embarrassments for the month of October, furnish very satisfactory comparisons with corresponding months of other years. There were 816 failures, involving $6,774,000 in liabilities from October a year ago, and comparisons with earlier years are even more favorable.

BRADSTREET'S FINANCE.

New York, Nov. 3—Bradstreet's review of the New York stock market tomorrow will say:

Speculation has been more active and the stock market was in the main strong and advancing. A decided rise in money rates, due to the effect of the November disbursements on the depleted New York bank reserves only created a slight bait in the markets progress with irregular concessions in stocks subjected to bearish attack. When the money market became somewhat easier as it did by Wednesday, the upward movement was resumed and strong support was displayed in different portions of the list. The trading, however, has continued to be largely professional and the bullish and confident tone which the street has shown has attracted only a moderate amount of outside buying. The London market experienced a shock early in the week on hearing of mishap to the British force in Natal and, on Tuesday especially there was considerable foreign selling in this market, the irregular declines in the early part of the week. The Transvaal war and the foreign financial situation generally have been watched but the fact that the London money market continues to be easy and that speculative interests there show confidence in the speedy termination of the war after the full British force arrives at the coast and to allay apprehension on that score. The rise in the money market here is regarded as much more serious matter for speculation. The contraction of loans falls, of course, mainly on the stock market and some authorities argue from the intense activity of trade and the failure of money to return from the interior that the contraction will continue for some time. The rise of call loan rates on Monday and Tuesday to 15 and 20 per cent with some incidental higher quotations, was due, however, to an unusual amount of disturbance of balances caused by the November interest, dividend and other payments. But these figures generally as leaders of money adopt them were regarded as temporary and failed to induce any serious liquidation of long holdings.

Lawson Is Acquitted.

Moila, Okla., Nov. 3—(Special)—The taking of the testimony in the case of the Territory vs. Calvin Lawson was concluded yesterday and the case went to the jury at eleven o'clock today. The case was well presented to the jury. Temple Houston making an able effort on behalf of his client and Judge Strang closing the argument in his usual clear and convincing manner. The jury was out three and one half hours and then returned a verdict of not guilty. This was the second trial of this case. Lawson having been convicted at the former trial held in Dewey county.

The case of the territory vs. Hodge was called this afternoon and an application for a change of judge on the ground of the bias and prejudice of the presiding judge. Hon. J. L. McAtee was made by counsel for the defendant. Judge Strang, who is assisting with the prosecution, attempted to examine Hodge as to the grounds of the application, but acting on the advise of his counsel, Hodge declined to answer all questions. Judge McAtee then took up the matter of examining the defendant as to the causes of making the application, but the defendant still declined to answer, doing this on the advise of his counsel who announced that their client was acting on their advise. The position being that the filing of the statutory affidavit was all that was required and that nothing could be done but to right to question the motive of the defendant or the cause that led to the making of the application. Judge McAtee granted the application. At the same time Mr. Houston gave notice that like applications would be made on behalf of Hamilton and Murchison.

It is likely that the assignment of a Judge to try these cases will be made at the coming session of the Supreme Court which meet on the 6th inst. It is also likely that another Judge will be assigned to try the cake-walk cases.

Lawson, who was today acquitted of the charge of murder in killing of Robert Durack in September, 1897, had been confined at Lansing for 17 months. The verdict of the jury was somewhat of a surprise.

STILLWATER NOW HAS THESE MODERN ILLUMINATIONS.

Stillwater, Nov. 3—(Special)—The Gazette, of this city, says:

Tuesday night the finishing touches were put upon the electric light plant in this city and about 7 o'clock the wheels were set in motion for the first time. The start was successfully made and within a few moments, a number of stores and business houses were elegantly lit up by the new light which will supersede kerosene lamps in the business portion of town at least. The lights burn as steadily as it is possible for any light and no doubt the company will give first class satisfaction in their service. At present there are only about 150 lights in operation but many held back to see whether or not the venture would be a success or not before ordering them. With the elegant start the company has made there is no doubt that the business men will come forward generously now and within a short time the whole town will be light by electricity.

This is one big enterprise for Stillwater put forward entirely by local men and local capital. Their venture has proved a success.

Stillwater, Nov. 3—(Special)—In regard to the entrance of the Oklahoma Indians into this city, the Gazette says:

It is now definitely settled where the railroad will run through town, where the depot will be and which way the road will run on each side of the city. According to Chief Engineer Marvin, the road will run down from Guthrie on the south side of the river to a point in Compton Township near the mouth of Stillwater Creek, then across the Compton river and follow up the bottom of the creek to Stillwater. Here it will turn north, follow corner creek almost to the arroyo line and over the divide to Pawnee. From Pawnee the line to be built at once through the Osage country to intersect with the Santa Fe company's line at Elgin, Kansas. At Stillwater the line comes in from the southeast on the east side of Lowry's farm. The depot will be just south of Lowry's house and the road will run directly alongside the east side feed yards, the Ideal steam mills and the Palmetto cotton gin. In fact the main survey really runs through the Ideal mills and will knock a corner off the cotton gin.

Hobart Grows Weaker

Palo Alto, Nov. 3—It was said at Vice President Hobart's home that he had passed another comfortable night. He slept well from about 9 o'clock last night until 7 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Hobart did not remain up with her husband last night, but retired early and never watched the patient during the night.

Although Mr. Hobart is resting easily it is admitted that he is gradually growing weaker. His failure to take nourishment in sufficient quantities is responsible for his weakness.

Palo Alto, Nov. 3—The following bulletins was authorized by Dr. Newton:

At 9:30 a. m.—Vice President Hobart passed a good night until 2 a. m. when he had an attack of weakness but rallied after the administration of medicine. Since 5 o'clock his pulse has been stronger and at 9 o'clock he was in fair condition.

RESTING QUARTERLY.

Palo Alto, N. J., Nov. 3—1 p. m.—Vice President Hobart is sleeping. Everything is favorable for a good night.

JEFFRIES WINS

his left and they went to a clinch again without anything being done. They exchanged light lefts and both missed lefts for the body. Jim jabbed a straight left to the eye and Tom clinched after the break. Jim jabbed his left to the sailor's stomach and forced him across the ring when they came to a clinch in which Sharkey forced Jim's head back with his elbow under the jaw. Again they came to a clinch in which they had to be broken by the referee with Sharkey holding Jim's right to Tom's chin. Sharkey clinched again and after they broke, Jim reached for the bell rang.

Round No. 7 was quicker this time. They clinched and after the break, Tom went right over neck. Jeff stabbed his left to face. Sharkey tried his left but fell short and received a right smash on one. Jeff seemed to be improving steadily and as Tom came in close to him, Jim shot right to Tom's chin. Sharkey clinched again and after they broke, Jim reached for the bell rang.

Sharkey still kept boring in but Jim met him every time with a left or right on the head and these soon made Sharkey groggy. Sharkey clinched frequently, but Jim kept pushing him off. Tom pushed back and swinging right wildly for head, failed to land and Jim caught him with right on jaw. They were clinched at last, with Jeff deciding the better man.

Round No. 8 was short and hard. Jeff led for heart and Sharkey ducked. Again Jeff led, but once more Tom was clever and ducked away from him. They clinched and in the break Jim went left on Tom's ear, the sailor returning with right on body. Tom kept at his man, but was met with uppercut on chest and a clinch followed. Jeff sent his right to head and body, with Tom sending three rights back. Tom swung right viciously for the head but fell short and Jim sent left hard to jaw, staggering the sailor. In a clinch Tom slipped to the floor, pulling Jim's left glove with him as he fell. The referee picked up the glove and tried to adjust it, meanwhile Sharkey tried to get at the sailor. Jeff broke away from the referee as Sharkey led for him with right and Jim sent his right over Sharkey's shoulder. The referee then got between them and as he did so the bell rang, ending the fight.

The referee then declared Jeff the
